Deacon Lawrence Klimecki

As Jesus continues to prepare his followers for the time when He will no longer be visible, He imparts to us a great gift, peace. "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give to you." But this is not the kind of peace that we tend to think of, for Our Lord gives "not as the world gives."

All too often in our world peace is little more than a ceasefire or even a type of "Cold War." But the peace that comes directly from Christ is the only true and everlasting peace. It is an interior peace of heart which overflows into families, communities, and even nations.

This is the peace that converts souls and changes the world.

The Church must be a sanctuary of peace from the rest of the world. To do this she must overcome her own internal problems and divisions. This is accomplished with the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

The Church reminds us of our need for peace throughout the Easter season. We need to be reminded that Christ's love, mercy, and mission can give us the interior peace we long for. As our friendship with Christ grows, so too does His peace within our hearts..

Although many of us would like greater inner peace, we do experience it in many ways.

When life's storms become too much for us to bear, we turn to prayer and find our peace in Him. We experience it in the Eucharist and in the sacraments, particularly in the sacrament of Reconciliation when we go to confession. We can find peace in His mother, Mary, the Queen of Peace.

But many people around us will never know this peace at all. They search all their lives and never find it. They do not know, or refuse to believe, that Christ's friendship is the root of all peace. They do not know God's love or mercy. They do not know they have a mission here on earth.

If we, who know Christ, still struggle to experience inner peace imagine how much more difficult it must be for our brothers and sisters who do not know Him.

But we can help them. We can bring them to Christ through our words, our prayers and our actions. By living our lives as an example we can bring others the message that Christ brought to us.

If we approach others in this manner then we will truly build a world based on the foundation of peace, a world reflected in the Holy City envisioned by John. Old and new are held together, divisions are reconciled.

The gates of the twelve tribes of Israel are connected by stone walls that bear the names of the twelve apostles.

Pax Vobiscum

In trust of God's infinite goodness, we pray to lift up our sick parishioners, family & friends, and those in need of healing of the body and soul. Almighty Father, hear out prayers for:

“At Roar, kids explore God’s goodness and celebrate a ferocious faith that powers them through this wild life.”

Many people have said that what drew them to the Catholic Church was the Eucharist. As we reflect on recognizing Jesus in the Breaking of the Bread, think for a moment whether there is someone you could invite to Mass and to explore what else the Catholic faith might hold for them.
